MONDAY MORNING, MAY 9, 1859.

A WEALTHY AND ENTERPRISING FOR-EIGN MERCHANT.

Gustave Barron, esq., one of the oldest and most wealthy foreign merchants of Mexico, died at the capital of that Republic on the morning of the 11th ult. Mr. Barron was a British subject. He went to Mexico soon after the independence, and commenced business at Mazatlan. His wealth grew with his years, and as he became more and more wealthy, he continually increased his enterprising labors. The town of Tepic owes all its greatness to him. Soon after the discovery of the New Almadon quicksilver mines in California, Mr. Barron became the patron of the discoverer. He gave him large sums of money, and finally became the largest shareholder in the mine. The result of this venture is now known to the world. It has been the Golconda of the age, and has enriched all parties interested in it. Mr. Barron may with justice have been called one of the most enterprising and public spirited men in Mexico. He was noble and generous, a good friend and a generous enemy. As a private person, he has played a conspicuous part in Mexico—perhaps more so than any other person. His loss at this time may be considered a great one, for he was one of the most clear-headed men, and his advice always was courted by the temporary governments and foreign ministers.

Hour! that synonym for the sweetest sanctities! how it falls upon the heart of the homeward streaming crowd. That fixed boundary of peace that society cannot enroach upon; where we can look calmly out upon the frowns of the world, and operplexed spirits find inspirations of strength and space for

Home! where gentle memories steal upon us with shadows of the twilight, and forms the tapestry of the walls, while the voice of the music is hushed and each soul within thesilent circle, catches a nearer glimpse of hesven a nearer view of sweet forms and faces yen a nearer view of sweet forms and faces gone before. Happy are those who can turn from the festive gaieties of the world, and meet fore, to give the public a thorough knowledge of outstretched arms and loving hearts in whose | what SOMBRERO GUANO does contain, we bog affection there is no decay and no deceit—

And when our vital lamp burns low, and the golden bowl begins to sunder, and the silver cord to untwine, let our look be up- exhibited, if required, under the original signature on the faces we best love! POWDER MAGAZINES.

The London Mechanics' Magazine, in alluding to the perils of men engaged in gunpowder mills, says: "Fear does not, however, appear to exercise much sway over the men who work in these dangerous trades. Eight men were killed on Wednesday, and more than eighty had, directly or indirectly, offered to supply their places before even their mangled remains were consigned to the grave." And yet, these men only receive fifty cents for a very long day's work. Honest men ought not to be tempted even for fifty times that amount to risk their lives in such an avocation. It adds-"we have convicts enough doing nothing—or less than nothing—who might be employed in such pursuits, and who might then be paid for their time, for no one would grudge even the greatest malefactor 2s. 2d. a day when it was known that his body was liable to be rent into fragments and scattered to the four quarters of the globe, at a moment's notice.'

one hundred dozen brooms, and called at the store of Messrs. G-, to sell them. After some dickering, a sale was effected at $2,00 per dozen, with the understanding that they should be paid for, half in money, and the other half in goods at cost price. The brooms were delivered to Messrs. G——, and $100 in money paid to the broom maker. The clerk of Messrs. G ——, now rubbed his hands, smiled very patronizingly.

What goods shall I set out for you sir?, and said the clerk. The broom maker scratched his head and assumed an attitude of labored meditation, then recovering himself he said: 'Well, I don't know what I do want, but guess I'll have fifty dozen brooms!-Chicago Herald.

One of Talleyrand's finest witticisms is told in Lord Brougham's Times of George III. Not long after his breach of friendship with Mme de Stael, that very intellectual and very masculine woman, wrote her novel of Delphine, in which she satirized her former friend in the character of an old woman, whilst she intended all the delicate charms of the heroine to be taken as her own. Chancing to meet Madame de Stael soon after the publication of the book, in a fashionable assembly, he said to her, bowing politely, "I understand, madame, that in your last novel you and I figure disguised as females."

VIRGINIA:—At Rules held in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of Alexandria County, the 4th day of April, 1859: George Kephart and Clam W. Barker, late partners in trade under the firm of Kephart & Barker, plaintiffs, vs. Moses Hepburn, defendant—in an action on the case to recover damages, in which an attachment has been issued. The object of this suit is to attach a tene ment and lot of ground on the west side of Pitt street, between Cameron and Queen streets, in the city of Alexandria. The defendant not having entered his appearance and given security according to the act of Assembly and the rules of this Court, and it appearing by affidavit that he is not a resident of this State, It is ordered, that the said defendant appear here within one month after the publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit; and that a copy of this order be forthwith inserted in the Alexandria Gazette, a newspaper published in the city of Alexandria, once a week for four suc-cessive weeks, and posted at the front door of the Court House of this County. A copy-Teste: R. A. SINCLAIR, Clerk.

SOMBRERO GUANO. N calling the attention of the public to this val-uable and recently discovered deposit of this fertilizing article, we will merely state, that like all other phosphatic GUANOS, its most valuable constituent is phosphoric acid, or bone phosphate of lime; and that its mercantile value, as compared with other GUANOS of its kind, may be easily deferent cargoes, from average samples taken by themselves from the cargoes just as they arrive from the island, without drying er selection of specimens for analyzation.
